STUMP TOUR OPENS JULY 27

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—This presidential campaign is very far from being a cut and dried one. It is complicated by a large array of side issues and separate but related factors. Their effect on the result can at this stage be only a matter of guesswork.

Canadian Governor and Roosevelt to Meet July 31st

Will Discuss New Reciprocal Treaty and Growing Business

2 GOOD NEIGHBORS

Canadian-U. S. Boundary Longest Unfortified Line in the World

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Neighborhood, in a double sense, will attend the meeting July 31 in Quebec of President Roosevelt and Lord Tweedsmuir, governor general of Canada.

They direct the governments of adjoining nations whose relations for decades have been of the friendliest. In addition, the President has a summer home on Campobello Island, New Brunswick, a few hundred yards over the Canadian border. There he actually is neighbor to the governor general's people.

As governor of New York, Mr. Roosevelt twice visited the Dominion during yachting trips that took him into Canadian waters. Since becoming president he has visited Canada once, informally. In the summer of 1933 he cruised to Campobello and stayed almost a week.

The president and the governor general's respective governments frequently have been referred to as examples of good neighbors in international relations. The president himself has spoken in that vein.

Not since the Civil war, when the United States abrogated its commercial treaty with Canada, has there been a serious dispute between the two countries. Their common border is called the world's longest unarmored international boundary.

Canada is the second largest customer for exports from the United States, and the United States is the second largest market for Canada's exports.

Tourist Spending Gains
American tourists spent $7,000,000 more in Canada in 1935 than in 1934, and Canadian tourist spending in the United States gained $27,000,000 in the same period.

The reciprocal trade agreement between the United States and Canada, completed November 15, 1935, probably will be the main subject for "official" conversation between President Roosevelt and Lord Tweedsmuir.

Lord Tweedsmuir, christened John Buchan, was best known as a writer before he was named to represent the British Crown in Canada. One of his latest books is a thoroughly documented biography of Oliver Cromwell.

'Camp Murphy' in Philippines

MANILA, P. I.—(AP)—Frank Murphy, American high commissioner in the Philippines, who has decided to campaign for the governorship of Michigan, has been honored by the commonwealth government. The national army camp site at San Juan in Rizal province is to be known as "Camp Murphy," as a tribute to the former Michigan judge and Detroit mayor. Camp Murphy will have six barracks and will house the Manila garrison of the new national army.

Turned Brown

By Brown Turner

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(Special)—After fifteen years of wrangling between hope and despair, Florence down in Alabama, has made connection with government-brewed electricity, which has proved shocking in utility circles.

Governor Landon recommends himself again, while Mr. Roosevelt is off thinking up a few recommendations for himself. Looks like about all the Union party needs now is the endorsement of Louis Firpo and Al Smith, but this may be lacking. Reading from left to right, it appears even cornbread will be scarce before next planting time.

City Hall Packed for Band Concert

Variety Program Presented by WPA String Band and Others

The Hempstead County WPA String Band presented the third of a series of programs at the city auditorium Friday night at 8 o'clock to an audience that packed the house.

New York Probing Extortion of 100

Imprisoned Lawyer Mixed Up in Many Cases, Prosecutor Asserts

NEW YORK.—The reported shake-down of a member of the multi-millionaire Pittsburgh Mellon family by Jerome Jacobs, imprisoned Broadway lawyer, is under investigation, Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings disclosed Friday.

Hastings declined to identify the victim, but said he had talked about the case to Raymond Derringer motion picture operator who is held with Jacobs under $50,000 extortion from Harry Bonnier, actor-producer and ex-husband of Ann Harding, film star. He said Derringer denied any knowledge of the supposed extortion.

"This man Jacobs is mixed up in at least a hundred cases that will bear investigating," Hastings declared.

Other cases he mentioned involved a Catholic priest from a small upstate New York town; a Greek priest from the coal regions of Pennsylvania; a father and son who acted as lawyers for Jacobs in a suit against a degenerate; and "a woman named Parsons" who was represented by John Milton, lawyer for Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City.

Another target of Jacobs' schemes, the assistant prosecutor said, was Leo Friede, wealthy New York broker with offices in Lower Broadway.

Friede, a close friend of Max Baer, Pa., Hastings said and Jacobs was her lawyer.

The records show that Friede was sued for $250,000 in December, 1930, by Jean Holmes, 17-year-old artist's model from Scranton. This was shortly after Mrs. Gladys Parker Friede had won $1,000 monthly alimony from the broker in a separation suit. Her complaint mentioned a party aboard the Friede yacht, the Normand—once the property of the Vincent Astors.

From Concord, N. H., came word that Harry S. Heckheimer, New York attorney, sued with Jacobs and Derringer of the extortion from Bonnier, had waived extradition and would be returned to New York at once. Heckheimer was arrested in Laconia, N. H., last night.

Clark brought a motion before the candidates seeking to place the candidates for sheriff at the end of the list of each speaking date.

Mr. Clark said: "All the people want to hear Bearden and Ward speak. I understand it's going to be a hot race. If they are at the end of the list the crowd will stay and listen—otherwise some of the candidates will be talking to empty benches."

Mr. Clark's motion was seconded by Frank May, candidate for treasurer.

Mr. Bearden rose quickly and protested. He said: "Gentlemen, Mr. Clark's motion is unfair to me and my opponent. Mr. (Continued on page three)

MEN OF TOMORROW

The Story of The Star's Carrier Boys—This One Is "Bing" Crosby, of Hope

My real name is John Crosby. They call me "Bing." I am 14 years old. My parents' names are Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Crosby. I live at 616 South Hervey street.

I have been carrying papers for The Star since the first week in January of this year. I well remember the day of my initiation.

I serve North Louisiana, North Hervey, North Pine, North Washington, Avenue D, Avenue G, and a few side streets. I also carry Division street.

I start delivering the papers at the corner of Division and Louisiana streets.

My subscribers are all O. K. I had a few bad ones when I first took over the route. I cut them out. I still have a few I have to run after a good deal.

A few of my best subscribers are Mrs. Nora Carrington Mrs. Ross Gillespie, Mrs. Norton, Mr. S. H. Briant, Mrs. Albert Graves.

Two of my very best customers are Mr. Bob Campbell and Frank Nolen. Every time I go to collect from Mr. Campbell he says:

"Here's that post again. Every time I look up I see him," and then he would laugh. He's a good guy.

The public teaches me to get acquainted with different types of people—and also a little business.

My daddy says that I would make a good preacher—but when I grow up I want to be either an editor or a congressman. So, long.

Yours,
John (Bing) Crosby.

General Rains in Southeast Section

Georgia, Florida, Carolina and Mississippi Get Drouth Relief

By the Associated Press
Rains covered most of the Southeast during the past 24 hours, the Weather Bureau announced Saturday. The precipitation further clinched the victory of the elements over three months of drouth.

The rain covered all of Georgia and surrounding states, extending halfway down the Florida peninsula, westward into Mississippi, and northeastward into the Carolina mountains.

Home Clubs Camp Planned Sept. 1-4

Dr. O. E. Baker, of U. S. Department, Will Be Camp Pike Speaker

Dr. O. E. Baker, senior economist, Bureau of Agricultural Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, has accepted an invitation to speak at the Fourth Annual Home Demonstration Club Camp which will be held at Camp Pike, September 1-4, according to Miss Elna McGough, acting state home demonstration agent, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, who is in charge of arrangements for the camp.

Dr. Baker is an internationally known economist and a noted speaker. He has been connected with the Department of Agriculture since 1912, and has been employed in extensive research on population trends and land utilization in the United States. One object of his research has been the effect of changes in dietary habits on the consumption of farm products.

In several talks at the camp, Dr. Baker is to discuss population trends, as they affect food production and consumption, and as they affect different phases of rural life, such as schools and housing. As a climax to his discussions on the movement of population between city and country, he has chosen "Why I Want My Boy and Girl to Stay on the Farm," as the subject of his final address.

The theme of the camp's program is to be the social and economic factors affecting farm life. "With this as the theme of the camp, we feel very fortunate to have secured Dr. Baker as the principal speaker, since he is famous for the research work he has conducted on this subject," Miss McGough stated in announcing his acceptance. The 1,200 Arkansas farm women who will attend the camp will have the rare opportunity of learning of his research work and its practical application to farm and home problems.

Attendance at the camp will be restricted to 1,200 delegates. All the counties in the state will be represented. Each county has been allotted an attendance quota, and no county will be permitted to send more delegates than the quota. This was made necessary by the fact that facilities at Camp Pike will not accommodate more than 1,200. Miss McGough stated.

Seeds of the subdilla plant are used in manufacture of tear bombs in Germany. They emit a gas that makes tears flow freely.

Hempstead County Candidates Will Begin at Patmos

Daytime Programs to Begin at 9—Night Engagements at 7 o'clock

16 SPEAKING DATES

Nevada County Tour Opening Wednesday, July 22, at Boughton

After much wrangling over dates and places, candidates seeking major political offices in Hempstead county finally worked out a schedule for a stump tour of the county following a meeting of the Democratic Central committee Friday afternoon at Hope city hall.

The schedule calls for 16 speaking dates. The opening blast will be sounded at Patmos, southern part of the county, Monday morning, July 22, at Boughton.

Hope was given two speaking engagements, the night of July 29 and the final date, August 10. All daytime engagements will start at 9 a. m. Night speaking will start at 7 o'clock.

The candidates followed a recommendation by the central committee, fix Monday, July 27, as the starting date of the tour.

A motion to bar district and state candidates from taking up time of the county candidates on the tour was introduced by L. F. Monroe, candidate for representative. The motion was unanimously adopted.

Several of the candidates, including L. F. Monroe and Frank May submitted proposed speaking dates at places, but the body as a whole could not agree.

J. R. Reed, Nashville Route 2, appeared before the candidates saying that he was representing citizens of Sardis community, northern Hempstead. He invited the candidates to speak there. The candidates could not agree on a date.

Reed retorted by saying: "Hit don't make no difference. If you want come we will guarantee a free dinner and we will be glad to have you. If you don't want to give us a date, you don't have to—we don't care," concluded.

Finally, the candidates agreed upon a schedule offered by Sheriff J. Bearden. Here is the itinerary:

Patmos—Monday, July 27, 9 a. m.
Spring Hill—Tuesday, July 28, 9 a. m.
Guernsey—Wednesday, July 29, 9 a. m.

Hope—Wednesday, July 29, 7 p. m.
Columbus—Thursday, July 30, 9 a. m.

Saratoga—Friday, July 31, 9 a. m.
Fulton—Friday, July 31, 7 p. m.
Ozan—Saturday, August 1, 9 a. m.
Piney Grove—Monday, August 2, 9 a. m.

Shover Springs—Monday, August 3, 7 p. m.
McCaskill—Tuesday, August 4, 9 a. m.
Blevins—Wednesday, August 5, 9 a. m.

DeAnn—Thursday, August 6, 9 a. m.
Bingen—Friday, August 7, 9 a. m.
Washington—Saturday, August 8, 9 a. m.

Hope—Monday, August 10, 9 a. m.

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

An old Irish doctor once said that there are two types of deafness—one due to wax in the ear and curable, and the other not due to wax and not curable.

There also are several kinds of earache—the two main classes being those due to infection inside the ear that usually is carried from the nose and throat, and those resulting from other causes.

The average man can guess at the cause of a stomachache or even at the cause of a headache, but he can hardly guess the cause of an earache. This can be diagnosed only by someone trained in examination of ears.

Sometimes an earache is caused by a boil or an infection in the canal which leads from the exterior down to the eardrum.

There was a time when people used to carry earplugs in their pockets, and would use them even in public for what they were supposed to be good for. The earplug disappeared from polite society, however, long before the toothpick lost caste.

When a boil begins in the canal that leads down to the eardrum, the tissues around the boil promptly swell. Swelling means pressure, and pressure, pain.

A boil in the ear canal will come to a head, just as it does elsewhere. When it comes to a head, it bursts, and the swelling is relieved. With relief of the swelling, there will be relief from the pain.

Whenever there is a boil or even a large pimple in the ear canal, the pain will be accentuated if one pulls on the ear or presses on the skin in front of or behind the ear. Even moving of the jaw, as in chewing, may exaggerate the pain.

In some cases nothing may be visible from the outside of the ear. If, however, the doctor looks into the canal, he will find a swelling which partially blocks the view of the eardrum.

Under such circumstances, the doctor will apply antiseptic substances to stem the growth of the germs, and hot applications to eliminate tenderness. When the boil comes to a head, he can puncture it to expedite the removal of its contents and to bring about a more rapid cure.

Remember that boils inside the ear, like boils elsewhere, begin where the skin has been broken or irritated. This is particularly true of boils on the back of the neck which follow irritation by the rough edge of a stiff collar.

Any manipulation of the ear canal for the removal of wax, or inside the ear with hard instruments by those who do not understand the delicate nature of these tissues, may be the first step toward breaking the skin and starting formation of a boil.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

When Timothy comes in blubbering that he got his clothes muddy because Buzzy pushed him, don't listen at all. His crime consists in blaming the other fellow, not in getting dirty. Perhaps Buzzy did push him, but the chances are that they were playing a game and both forgot the puddle was there.

If Timothy isn't a chronic "squealer," then we can afford to look into things and treat the matter as it deserves. But the little boy or girl who keeps constantly to face the results of his own faults gets to be unbearable.

Habit Quickly Acquired
The habit seems to grow from almost nothing. One day Timmy is a real sport, and then something happens to turn him to alibi-hunting. Maybe a little fear has poked up his head. Maybe he's done something he's been warned about and suddenly finds the need of excuses, or perhaps without realizing it, his parents have over-punished for something he really couldn't help.

But more than likely his mother has taken his part some time and blamed an incident on another little boy. Suddenly Timothy realized how good it felt to be let off.

After that he didn't need any help. He could do his own accusing. Not only Buzzy, but Pete and Jim and Hector were convenient pegs to hang his conscience on.

Now Timothy comes in whimpering about stones and gates and green apples as well as people. If that old trick hadn't been there he wouldn't have stumbled. If the chair hadn't been out of place he wouldn't have cracked his ankle. If the old tree hadn't dropped its apples he wouldn't have tried one and got a stomach ache.

Affects Adult Life
You can't call such a child a tattletale exactly, because his idea of involving others is not a desire to see them suffer merely to be excused himself. He is simply refusing to acknowledge that he has any responsibility at all, because he likes to excuse himself, to himself.

As he grows, the habit will color his whole outlook. Nothing that happens, by any possible chance, will ever be his own fault entirely, so he figures.

It soon passes from "things" and "people" to situations. If he is late it will forever be something beyond his own control that kept him. If he doesn't get along in school, "the teacher is no good," or "he is too busy," "the family won't help him," or "all my books are torn." Any reason but the right one, his own lack of perseverance.

Don't Permit Alibis
Once this stage is reached the man in him is pretty well lost. Dear knows we fail, and only too often because of others. But we can't be the inflexible people we think we are, all of the time. Each of us has a streak of the alibi-er in us. Nevertheless the chronic sufferer is a nuisance to himself and everyone else. And it is the first thing a sharp-eyed world sees. We never fool anybody very long.

This is why it is so necessary to teach very young children not to run in and blame the Buzzies and the Fettes for splashing mud. Every car that's wrecked isn't the other fellow's fault. Oh, how we hate to acknowledge that one second we took our eye off the road. It isn't one bit different from Timothy's failure to see the puddle when he and his pal were playing tag.

wanted power vested in the several states. And the Constitution was written by conservatives.

Today, continues Mr. Brant, the picture has changed. An enormous corporate oligarchy has arisen; if it is to be controlled at all in the interest of the ordinary citizen, it must be controlled from Washington.

So democracy, if it is to survive, must move constantly in the direction of greater federalization. That path, he insists, leads not to dictatorship, but to greater freedom.

And Thomas Jefferson? Well, says Mr. Brant, it was precisely Thomas Jefferson who started this business of a strong executive. His Louisiana purchase gave the theory of states' rights a blow from which it has never recovered.

We need no constitutional amendment, he concludes. The power the federal government needs is already in the Constitution; all we need is a supreme court that will say so.

Candors are expected to carry their loads 25 miles a day for three days without a drink, while crossing the desert.

Beauty and Power—Byproducts of Boulder

In the foamy spray of a majestic artificial cascade, a huge boxcar dangles like a toy—this is the scene, impressive in its revelation of immense power and startling beauty created by puny man, pictured in this striking air view of Boulder Dam. As Boulder's "Niagara" gushes from five outlet valves into the boiling tailrace below, a freight car nearby is being lowered by the permanent cableway to the Nevada powerhouse, hidden behind the brink of the canyon in foreground.

So Much for Love

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HELENA DERRICK, youthful head of the women's apartment department at Helvig's store, receives an invitation from one of her customers, SANDRA LEIGH, to join a week-end party at Crest Mountain Lodge.

Helena goes. Also a member of the party is handsome PETER HENDERSON from a nearby town. It is a case of love at first sight between Helena and Peter. Almost immediately he asks her to marry him. Helena hesitates, finally agrees.

Peter and Helena confide in Sandra and it is decided that the marriage shall take place at the Lodge.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

IT was Sandra Leigh herself who went for the minister, using the broken down roustabout car owned by the caretaker of the lodge. She was to return with him well before noon, and in the meantime Crest Mountain Lodge was a beehive of activity. Sandra's friends delightedly decorated the big main room of the lodge with fir boughs, and strips of colored paper which the lodgekeeper's wife resurrected.

More excited than any were Peter Henderson and Helena. For the most part they kept close to their respective rooms, trembling against the time when Sandra would return with the minister.

Several times Helena, stricken by sudden panic, debated whether to escape to the station. Suppose it was all a horrible mistake? There were a hundred things that could happen. She might discover that Peter was improvident and given to drink; for Helena had heard that these evils often went with charm. And she might learn—too late—that Peter was one of those men who found all women attractive, and was in turn admired by them. There came back to Helena a casual remark of Sandra Leigh's: "No woman can resist that charm of his. . . . What had she meant by that? Perhaps it was a calculated statement, a remark designed to win a friend, to make her think.

As the morning wore on, she began to dress herself for the wedding. Sandra had told her that she might wear simple sport clothes for the ceremony, and Helena had been mildly amused at the suggestion. In her week-end bag she had packed only three outfits: one for swimming, one for hiking through the woods, and a sports outfit adaptable to whatever informal affair might take place. But she had never dreamed that any "informal affair" might turn out to be her own wedding!

Just as she completed dressing she heard Sandra's familiar voice on the veranda.

"I couldn't find a minister—but I found a justice of the peace, and he insists he can marry people legally!"

A MOMENT later came Sandra's excited rap on Helena's door. At the latter's invitation she burst inside the room. "You've no idea what a perfectly ghastly time I had finding someone who could really marry you and Peter!"

Helena laughed shakily. "Maybe that's a bad omen."

"Nonsense! I didn't mean that, you goose. But this is a wild country up here. They don't expect marriages, you know. Though I did find a justice of the peace. He can't see very well, and he has whiskers, but I'm sure you'll adore him. He was a little suspicious at first. Said he wouldn't have anything to do with what he called a 'gin wedding.' But finally I managed to assure him that nobody had taken a drink at Crest Mountain Lodge for at least 10 hours."

Almost before they realized that Peter had climbed the tree, he dived from its topmost branch.

"Maybe you shouldn't have done that," Helena faltered. "I feel as if I might do well with a cocktail."

Sandra put her arm about Helena's shoulder. "Buck up, girls. Get married every minute—and live. It's the bridegroom who really needs a drink. He takes all the responsibility. Sandra grinned mischievously. "And I'd be willing to bet that Peter has had one or two."

When Helena accompanied Sandra out into the giant living room with its roaring fire she discovered that the Leigh girl was right. Peter had taken a drink or two, although he did not show it. Helena would never have realized it had she not detected the sweetish odor of liquor. She didn't blame him. The fact was that she rather envied the false assurance the alcohol had given Peter. How did a man feel when he was about to agree, before God and the world, to take unto himself a woman and support her for the rest of their natural lives?

She would never, as long as she lived, forget the next few moments in that tall-ceilinged room with its hewn fir beams. Always she would remember the smiling faces of Sandra's friends—Ruth Sutter and her husband, Fain Sutter, and her husband, Fain Sutter, and her husband, Fain Sutter.

Jack Gose and Violet Nevitt

. . . Bernard Reiter and Lora Fanchon . . . Blair Lowell who had come with Sandra—and the pleased expressions of the caretaker and his wife.

It seemed odd that a ceremony which was to bind two people for life should consume so little time. When it was over she stood as if stunned, and then suddenly Peter took her in his arms and kissed her full upon the lips. She heard the delighted squeals—they were really that, she remembered afterward—of the wedding party. Fain Sutter, and Jack Gose and the rest insisted upon kissing the bride, despite the protests of Peter; and at length she found herself in a corner of the big room, trembling and scared—yet somehow happy.

She was grateful when Peter came to her again. "There'll be time to think this out," he whispered. "The thing for you to remember, until we can be alone, is that I love you. Will you remember that?"

"Always," Helena said. "And you'll remember that—that it goes double!"

She saw Sandra coming toward them. "Well," the Leigh girl exclaimed, "it's all over now. And, just to celebrate, we're all going for a swim—after the caretaker has brought us cocktails to drink to the bride."

Peter turned to her. "You've been grand, Sandy. Helena and I will never be able to thank you enough. But we'll slip out on the

Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD.—Irvin S. Cobb, movie actor, still regards himself with astonishment. Doesn't know quite how it happened, or why.

One day he was a successful author, prosperous, a little tired, and all set for a long job of loafing in California. Now he's living in Greta Garbo's former home, wearing Hollywood clothes, playing tag to the celluloid Thellie, and working harder than he ever worked before. And liking it.

He has only one explanation: "Acting is a new kind of adventure. At that, though, I was sort of dragged into it."

"Acting is kin to writing, an effort to interpret something. Interpret, mind you—not create. We've got too many people called creative artists. Mightily few are creative; fewer are artists. Hollywood just has a bunch of good craftsmen."

"I never had one grease paint before, and never was behind the footlights except when talking at benefits. In fact, the behind-the-scenes part of the legitimate stage never fascinated me. But the movies do."

Circuses also fascinate Mr. Cobb. The inference is clear, then, and undoubted, that the likens Hollywood to the world of ballyhoo-and-spangles under canvas.

No Hamlet in Him
As far back as the Cobbs can be traced, there wasn't an actor in a steamboat load. When a kid in Pasadena, Irvin drew pictures. "I think," he said, "that I had the makings of a pretty bad cartoonist."

He even sold a few drawings to cheap magazines—the first published manifestations of Cobb humor.

The family planned to send him away to study art, but catastrophe galloped up at the last minute with a reprieve—Cobb's father lost all his money. So Irvin had to get a job.

He went to New York and became a reporter; eventually, a good one, and a columnist on the side. Began to get a reputation as a funny guy, and one day the Friars' Club asked him to speak at a dinner.

First Speech a Flop
"I had covered plenty of banquets, and decided there wasn't any trick to after-dinner speakin'," he reminisced. "So I wrote a funny speech and rehearsed it."

"Well, it flopped. The stories just didn't match, or click. They died all over the place, and not in convulsions either. My ego expired along with 'em. But not my vanity. I vowed I'd get the knack of it if it killed me."

"It just about killed me—some of those banquets, when! But I learned the trick, and then found I had whupped the doggeddest Frankenstein that ever hounded a man through life."

Cobb went to Europe as a correspondent at the outbreak of the World War. On his second day at the front, he got too close to the action, was captured—it took a lot of Germans to surround the ponderous Cobb—and shipped to Brussels.

Thereafter, until America entered the argument, he worked behind the German lines and traveled on the only pass over issued by the Kaiser himself.

Rogers Started Him
He was 37 before he wrote and sold his first piece of fiction. "An age," he observed, "when most people have sense enough to quit." Since then his score is 60 books and some 2000 stories and articles, with another novel coming up. He had a birthday June 23—in his sixtieth.

In 1934 Will Rogers asked him to come to Hollywood as adviser on the picture, "Judge Priest," based on Cobb's most celebrated character. About that time, too, Hal Roach invited him to make a series of comedy shorts. He came.

To Roach he said, "I've never tried writing comedy or anything else directly for the screen, although I've had a hand in three or four bad stage plays. I don't want to take your money under false pretenses, but I'll write on speculation."

"Write, hell," said Roach. "I want you to act!"

So Cobb tried to act. But the stuff was farce, and Cobb—as he suspected and Roach should have known—is not a farce type. The two-reelers were pretty bad, and the series was suspended by mutual agreement.

Another Venture—Success
He went back to the tasteful hacienda formerly occupied by Miss Garbo, called for a mint julep, and was just settling down for his first spell of loafing when the phone rang. A Mr. Zanuck to speak to Mr. Cobb. Mr. Zanuck, head of 20th Century-Fox, asked how about coming out and signing an acting contract.

Cobb swore, sighed, hitched up his five-inch leather belt, put on his sombrero, and went. Since then he has contributed comedy to "Steamboat Round the Bend," "Everybody's Old Man," and "Pepper." The latter is a soon-to-be-released picture with Jane Withers.

"I am not an actor," said the bewildered Mr. Cobb. "I never shall be an actor. I am trying to behave naturally, but I find that most people trying to be natural do a lot of artificial things and spot a lot of rhetorical junk."

"But I like it, and I'm learning a lot, especially about dialog. After all these years of writing dialog, I thought I knew something about it."

In his odd moments he goes fishing, or drives into the desert. Or plays poker for modest stakes. Cobb favors only small parties for his friends. For his enemies, large funerals.

Clouds cannot form in the stratosphere. They can form only where there is temperature decrease with altitude, and there is a virtually constant temperature in the stratosphere.

Doors of Daring
The mountains that enclose the vale with walls of granite, steep and high, invite the fearless foot to scale their stairway toward the sky. The restless, deep, dividing sea that flows and foams from shore to shore calls to its sunburned chivalry. "Push out, set sail, explore!" The bars of life at which we fret, that seem to prison and control, are but the doors of daring, set ajar before the soul. Say not, "Too poor," but freely give; say not, "Too weak," but boldly try; you never can begin to live until you dare to die.
—Henry Van Dyke.

Miss Beryl Henry spent Wednesday with friends in the city, returning from a meeting of the National Education Association in Portland, Or. Miss Henry left Thursday morning for Nashville, Tenn., where she will take a course in Peabody, returning to Hope about September 1.

Clark ought not worry about the crowd. He is one of the best speakers I ever heard.

"It ought not to make any difference to Mr. Clark whether he speaks first or last. They are going to wait and listen to him. When Mr. Clark starts speaking he can simply hold a crowd spell-bound. He's the best I ever heard," Bearden snapped.

A vote was called and Mr. Clark's proposal lost.

The candidates later agreed to speak in rotation—all the candidates for judge one day, the sheriff's the next, and so on down the list.

Preceding the meeting of the candidates, W. S. Atkins, chairman of the Democratic Central committee, urged that the primary election be held August 11, he conducted in a fair and orderly manner.

"Although there never was an election 100 per cent legal—and probably never will be in my life time—it doesn't keep us from trying to discharge our sworn duties," Mr. Atkins declared.

A committee of three, Lat Moses, C. R. White and Jerry Turner, were named to deliver election supplies to the polling places.

The central committee, early in the meeting, voted unanimously to place the names of 14 candidates on the ticket who had failed to file a corrupt practice pledge with the county clerk.

All the candidates, however, had paid fees and met other requirements before the lists closed last Saturday, July 11.

Shirley Temple's 'Guard' Is Revealed

Her Father Accidentally Sets Off Kidnap-Alarm Device

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (P)—Shirley Temple's father accidentally demonstrated Friday that the stories of mechanical "bodyguards" for movie children are based on facts.

Bells clanged, lights blazed and a siren whined when George Temple set off the apparatus in the Temple home while tripping the master switch during the morning.

Shirley's house is considered kidnap-proof.

The houses of other million-dollar babies are similarly protected with automatic gadgets. Should an intruder disturb them, they light the house and grounds, lock the outer gates, and set up an ear-splitting jangle of bells and whistles fit to waken the neighborhood for miles around.

Bing Crosby's babies have an invisible ray watching over them in sleep. If it is broken by the body of a prowler, bedlam breaks loose.

Barbara Bebe Lyon, little daughter of Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels, has a similar protection. What's more, the iron work on the outer gates and walls surrounding the house are electrically charged.

Marlene Dietrich, Harold Lloyd and Ann Harding depend on flash-and-blood protection for their children when they are in Hollywood. Neither Marie Sieber, daughter of Miss Dietrich, or Jane Bannister, Miss Harding's child, are ever out of sight of bodyguards. The Lloyd's home is surrounded by high walls, inside which are a dozen Great Dane dogs.

'San Francisco' on Screen Three Days

Clark Gable, Jeanette MacDonald Here in a Famous Photoplay

Clark Gable's newest picture role is in a romantic musical drama of early San Francisco in which he is co-starred with Jeanette MacDonald, and Spencer Tracy.

Gable's vigorous roles in "China Seas" and "Mutiny on the Bounty," and Miss MacDonald's outstanding success in "Naughty Marietta" and "Rose Marie" served as the inspiration to bring the two notable stars together for the first time.

In the new picture, "San Francisco," opening with shows Sunday at 2:30 and 9 p. m., Monday and Tuesday night at 8 p. m. and the usual 2:30 matinee Tuesday, Gable portrays a big-time gambler of the Golden Gate city at the height of its most glamorous period, in the beginning of the twentieth century.

The part is in tune with the type that Gable likes best, such as "Red Dust," "Free Soul," "Men in White" and "It Happened One Night"—and which did more to elevate him to the top ranks of stardom more than any other characterization.

Miss MacDonald is a small-town minister's daughter who seeks adventure in San Francisco, rises to fame in the music halls and, later, in the legitimate theater.

An absorbing love story for Gable and Miss MacDonald is woven through the plot, with Miss MacDonald singing favorite songs of the past and others written for her. These range from melodies familiar to every household to the most famous operatic arias.

Dizzy Dean Wins His 15th Victory

Hurls Cards to 5-4 Win, Finishing 4 Innings Without a Hit

ST. LOUIS (P)—Dizzy Dean won his 15th victory of the season Friday after losing his sixth Thursday and the 5-to-4 win of Cardinals over the Phillies prevented a sweep of the three-game series by Jimmy Wilson's crew.

The great hurler, recovering from a blow on the head received Saturday when Burgess Whitehead of the Giants caromed a line drove off Dean's skull, went in as a relief hurler in the sixth. He didn't allow a hit and in the ninth struck out three Philadelphia batters in a row.

Johnny Mize, as pinch hitter, lifted a home run on top of the rightfield pavilion in the eighth, driving in Lynn King ahead of him.

George Earnshaw, veteran pitcher obtained by the Cards from the Dodgers, started but went out in the sixth. Ed Heusser lasted a third of the inning. Then Manager Frisch called on Dean.

Frisch was back at second base for the first time since early season because of the illness of Stuart Martin.

Germany Employs Traveling Theater

Mobile Stage Goes About the Country-Side Showing Nazi Drama

BERLIN (P)—To familiarize isolated German rural communities with Nazi trends in dramatic art, traveling (theatrical) companies have been sent to shed educational light in the corners of the reich.

These touring companies are not to be confused with the barnstormers of old; nor are they "guests" from the large city casts. Their purpose is to place the German drama in a worthy manner before country audiences who live too far away from towns to see good acting.

The latest mechanical and lighting devices for staging a play creditably in a barn or village hall have been adapted, in miniature or simplified helped her can.

Misses Byrel and Norine Pickard spent ednesday afternoon with Miss Fay Pickard.

Mrs. Alfred Bearden and children spent Wednesday afternoon with Miss Tommy Butler.

Mrs. Von Arrington called on Mrs. Rogers Thursday afternoon.

The Baptist revival starts at this place Sunday. Every one is invited to attend.

Experts Join Landon's Staff

Taft

A SON of the late President William Howard Taft, Charles P. Taft, has been named as one of the campaign aides of Gov. Alf M. Landon. Taft is regarded as one of the nation's leading authorities on the science of city government.

Robey

IN organizing a staff of specialists to aid in the Landon drive for votes this fall, the Republicans have enlisted the services of Ralph W. Robey, of the Columbia University faculty. Robey is widely known as an economist.

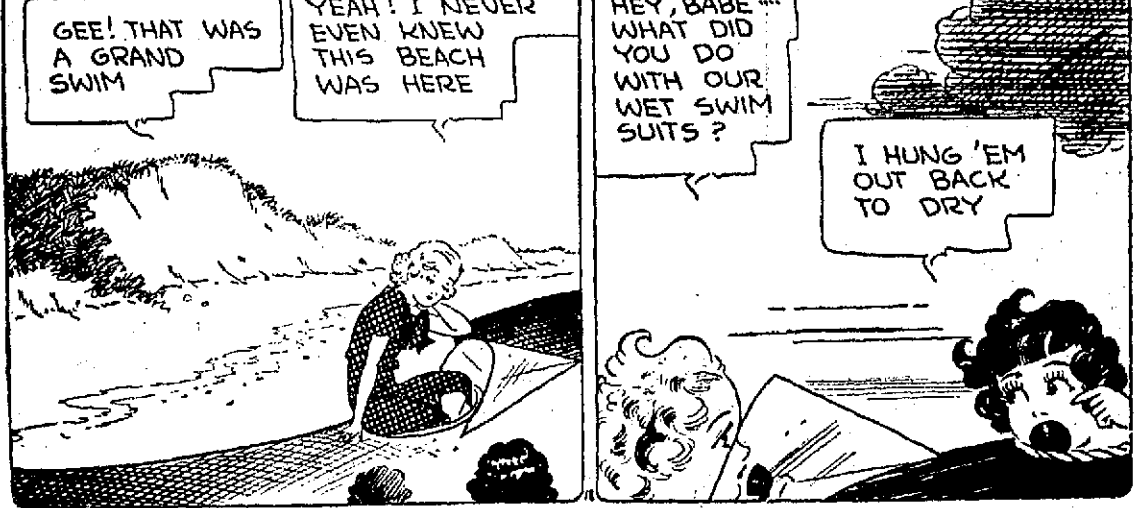

SELECTED as an assistant in conduct of the campaign of Governor Landon for the presidency, Earl H. Taylor will be agricultural adviser in the Kansas organization. Taylor is a former associate editor of Country Gentleman.

CROWNED BY FIRE

RUSHED by the nobility, 400 years ago, the poor peasants of Hungary despaired ever of being freed from serfdom. But Gyorgy Dozza, son of a peasant, looked ahead and rose to prominence in the army. He dreamed of the day when he could liberate his people from their misery.

In 1514, he was given command of an army, to war against the Turks. But, instead of advancing upon the Moslems, Dozza and his men turned upon their own oppressors. They burned and plundered the high estates, and killed many of the nobles. Dozza, now drunk with power, saw himself as the future king of Hungary.

But soon hired soldiers crushed the rebels and took Dozza captive. His boast of being king was recalled, so his captors made throne, crown and scepter of iron. These they heated to red heat and then, before the cowering populace, they forced Dozza to ascend this fiery throne. Scorching crown on his head, flaming scepter across his knees, he sat in writhing agony until his body crumbled in the flames.

This weird story is recalled by Dozza's portrait on one of five ugly stamps issued by the revolutionist, Bela Kun, during his short rule in Hungary after the World War.

MONSTERS OF THE PREHISTORIC PAST

SCOLIDOSAURUS

THIS THIRTEEN-FOOT-LONG MONSTROSITY OF THE LOWER JURASSIC PERIOD OF ENGLAND, IS THE EARLIEST KNOWN RELATIVE OF THE ARMORED DINOSAURS - AND QUITE POSSIBLY WAS THE ANCESTOR OF ALL THE ARMORED TYPES OF THE AGE OF REPTILES

NEXT WEEK - ZANCLONDON

THAT GIRL OVER THERE WITH THE NEW RIDING HABIT HAS BEEN TAKING LESSONS FOR SIX MONTHS AND SHE DOESN'T RIDE ANY BETTER NOW THAN WHEN SHE STARTED.

YES — I'VE NOTICED HER.

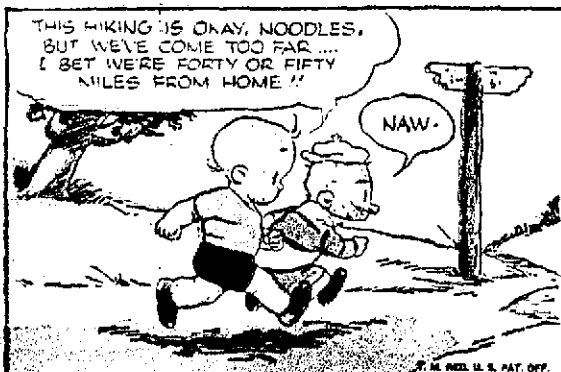

I WONDER WHY IT TAKES SOME GIRLS SO LONG TO LEARN TO RIDE HORSES?

MAYBE, IT'S BECAUSE THEY HAVE TO GET THE "RIDING HABIT" BEFORE THEY BEGIN TO LEARN.

THIS HIKING IS OKAY, NOODLES, BUT WE'VE COME TOO FAR... I BET WE'RE FORTY OR FIFTY MILES FROM HOME!!

NAW.

IT'S GOOD FER YA, HERK... IT KEEPS YER RED CORPUSCLES IN SHAPE... WHERE D'YA SUPPOSE JACK DEMPSEY WOULD OF GOT TO, IF HE HADN'T OF DID HIS ROAD WORK? WHY, IT'S TH' GREATEST THING IN TH' WOULD — IT KEEPS YER PORES OPEN!!

WELL, ANYWAY — I WISH WE'D BROUGHT A LUNCH WITH US.

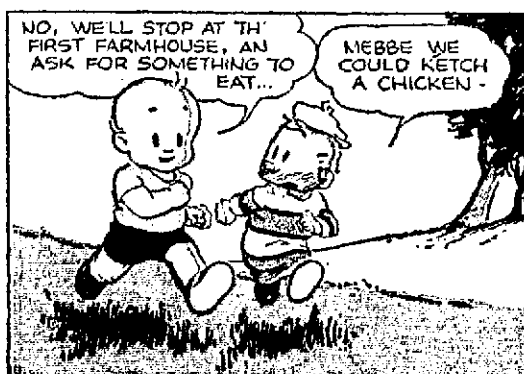

I'M SHUNGRY I COULD EAT GRASS... GOSH, I WISH MOM WAS HERE WITH SOME JELLY SANDWICHES, ER SOMETHING.

YEAH, I COULD HANG ME LIP OVER A STEW, RIGHT NOW, TOO!

LET'S STOP AN' MILK A COW...

NO, WE'LL STOP AT TH' FIRST FARMHOUSE, AN' ASK FOR SOMETHING TO EAT...

MEBBE WE COULD KETCH A CHICKEN.

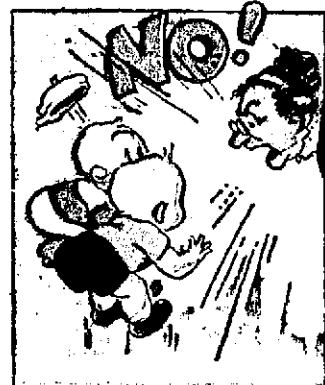

GOSH, WE ARE IN LUCK — HERE'S A TEA SHOPPE — WE'LL GO UP AN' ASK FOR SOMETHING...

GOOD IDEA

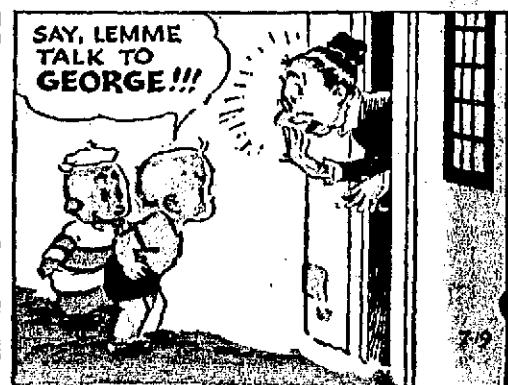

PLEASE, LADY... WE'VE BEEN HIKING, AN' WE'RE PRETTY HUNGRY — COULD YOU GIVE US SOME THING TO EAT?... WE'RE WILLING TO WORK FOR YOU.....

George and the Dragon Tea Shoppe

GEORGE AN' TH' DRAGON, EH?

SAY, LEMME TALK TO GEORGE!!!

and CHARLES COLL

CALLED TO A CAIRO HOSPITAL, TO INVESTIGATE THE CASE OF A BOY, LEFT MYSTERIOUSLY AT THE DISPENSARY DOOR, MYRA GETS A SURPRISE WHEN SHE ATTEMPTS TO LEARN HIS IDENTITY

LOOK, DR. BURGESS/ I FOUND THIS NOTE OF WARNING ON THE PAD IN THE BOY'S ROOM-

WELL! IT LOOKS AS IF OUR PATIENT IS SOMEONE OF CONSEQUENCE

YES-AND IT LOOKS AS IF SOMEONE RIGHT HERE IN THE HOSPITAL KNOWS WHO THE BOY IS!

WE'LL HAVE TO DO SOMETHING ABOUT THIS, AT ONCE!

PARDON ME--THE LAD IN 202 IS CALLING FOR YOU, NURSE-- BETTER HURRY!

HELLO, CURLY--HAVE YOU SUDDENLY REMEMBERED WHO YOU ARE?

YES--I MEAN--NO NO--I--OH, MY HEAD HURTS ME SO I CAN'T REMEMBER--

COME, NOW--TRY REAL HARD--CAN'T YOU EVEN REMEMBER WHAT KIND OF AN ACCIDENT YOU HAD?

OH--THE ACCIDENT? ER--NO--WHY DO YOU WANT TO KNOW THAT?

CURLY--I AM YOUR FRIEND---I WANT TO HELP YOU--BUT DON'T TELL ME ANYTHING YOU DON'T WANT TO.

TAKE THIS, NOW--IT WILL HELP YOUR HEAD--

I'LL HAVE TO WIN HIS CONFIDENCE-- I HAVE A SUSPICION HE KNOWS WHO HE IS--BUT IS AFRAID TO TELL-- WHY?

THE DUST FOUND IN ONE'S CLOTHING OFTEN TELLS AN INTERESTING STORY, DOCTOR--I SHOOK THE BOY'S COAT OVER A PAPER, AND NOW THE DUST PARTICLES ARE ON A SLIDE, UNDER THE MICROSCOPE--

VERY INTERESTING, MISS NORTH--MIND IF I WATCH?

DOCTOR! A LOT OF THESE PARTICLES SEEM TO BE CELLULOSE NITRATE--I'LL BET THE BOY HAS BEEN IN A BOMBING!!
